Challenges & Opportunities
in a Pandemic Era

BE PART OF

a free online series discussing important mental health topics
during this historic time

The COVID-19 pandemic and economic downturn is negatively affecting the mental health of many people, including those who haven't had these challenges before.

JFS turned that negativity around by creating a series of free, online talks with mental health professionals about challenges and opportunities in this historic time of change and growth.
